What is this?

A design awards program for Licensed Architects who design residential architecture, usually single family homes. Projects designed and/or built within the last 12 years.

What is ArCH?

ArCH is an American-based international organization of Licensed Architects focusing on residential architecture, professional excellence, achievement, Client value & service.
www.ArCHomes.org

Why should I enter?

Do your projects actually LOOK more like houses? You may do well. So will contemporary, historic, mainstream, transitional and other styles of homes that have design quality. There is room for ALL styles of design. No one "style" or type is preferred.

This is Not a "competition," but rather: a celebration of design quality no matter what the stylistic exterior. And if what you've designed is excellent, then your chances of winning a design award are good.

Would you like to be able to claim that you and your company create award-winning residential architecture? And be able to proudly display the award on your website and in your firm's marketing materials? Then you ought to consider entering.

Number of Awards

There is no set number. If a submittal displays top quality residential architecture, it will likely be seriously considered for an award.

Categories

There are multiple categories. See below.

Number of Entries

Each person/firm is limited to no more than 4 entries per year.

Type of program

This is the first totally digital, electronic design awards program. Totally green. Zero carbon footprint. No binders, no paper, no snail-mail, no FedEx, no hotels, no problems. And very economical. The focus is on design, not analog ways of doing things in the past. Be part of the future of residential architecture.

Request that you forward to other residential Architects

Whether you decide to participate or not (we hope so), please forward this notice to other Licensed Architects that you know that create residential architecture. Thank you very much.

Who's eligible to enter

1. You must be a Licensed Architect anywhere in the USA or the world, from a recognized Board of Architecture authority.
2. You must be a member of ArCH.

Date of Awards

This will depend on the number of submittals. The intention is to make the awards online, electronically, directly to each winner, within 30 days after the date of submittals. This could be extended, if a large number of entries are made.

Public Notice of Winners

ArCH will post the names of winners and for what type of projects on the ArCHwebsite. Any other publication may or may not additionally occur.

Nature of Awards

In keeping with the 100% electronic nature of the ArCHdes awards program, the awards will be in the form of a tastefully designed JPG image of the award, which you will be able to proudly display on your website and related materials. There is presently some discussion about the possibility of also having a 3D model of the awards available at your own additional cost for production at another outsourced entity, being run on 3D printers.
